Andrews Sports Institute for Future Leaders

Bradley Mackenzie
Andrews Sports Institute is a program designed to supplement athletic and academic development while allowing student-athletes to stay in the public-school system. There are three components of the Andrews Sports Institute Program including: 1) After school elementary school program, 2) School integration program for middle school, 3) Remote program.

The after school elementary school program is ten-weeks, four hours per week in duration. Student-athletes receive two hours of hockey specific on-ice training as well as two-hours of leadership training in the classroom. The program also includes hockey skills homework, an at home leadership reading portion, and a community involvement project.

The school integration program follows a similar curriculum to the after-school program but is designed to be implemented into the public school system. Students take the Andrews Sports Institute class as an elective option. The duration of this program is twenty weeks and follows the same four hour per week model as the after school program.

The remote program is an online curriculum designed to offer at home hockey and leadership training. Students are assigned a mentor coach who monitors homework progress and coaches through a bi-weekly video-conference call.

This portfolio thesis will outline the elements of the three program components of Andrews Sports Institute.

1 Introduction

Andrews Hockey Growth Programs (the commissioning party) have been training hockey players of all abilities since 1979 with the understanding that successful development as an athlete is the product of complete personal growth. Through scientifically researched on-ice training programs, professionally developed off-ice training and leadership development classroom sessions, the program strives to Educate, Develop, and Enhance the Lives of Young People to Help Them Reach Their Full Potential (Andrews Hockey Growth Programs Mission Statement, 2004).

With the creation of the Andrews Sports Institute for Future Leaders, the Andrews Hockey Growth Programs can further the positive impact made on the lives of youth. The Andrews Sports Institute for Future Leaders program has a mission to Prepare Today’s Student-Athletes for Tomorrow’s World (Andrews Sports Institute, 2017) by combining hockey skill development, personal growth, and leadership development.
2 Elements of Andrews Sports Institute for Future Leaders

Andrews Sports Institute for Future Leaders is a program designed to enhance both athletic and academic development. There are three components to the program (figure 1).

![Diagram of three elements: After-School Program, School Integration Program, Remote Program]

By having three different models, the program mission of Preparing Today’s Student-Athletes for Tomorrow’s World can be available for participants of all ages and geographical location.
2.1 After-School Program

The After-School Program is designed for elementary school student-athletes who are looking to supplement their academic and athletic development. The program duration is ten weeks; two days per week, two hours per day (table 1).

The on-ice skills program is outlined in Appendix 3. Each session includes thirty minutes of skating development and thirty minutes of advanced puck skills.

The leadership training classroom is a student-lead program which challenges students to learn about important leadership qualities and apply these qualities to their life. Each week students are given three related words to research. Students are also provided with a resource manual which can be found in Appendix 1. These resources include definitions, quotes, videos, and short readings that help to understand the leadership concept.

The student’s success manual (Appendix 4) is used to guide participants through the leadership concepts (table 2) by posing four simple questions: What does it mean? Why is it important? How does it apply to me? How can I improve in this area? Students are asked to present their response to these questions during the leadership training classroom.

The second component of the leadership training is a homework reading program. Students are provided with a leadership book to read and are assigned weekly chapters to study. Students read the book at home, write out a short summary of what they learned in that week’s chapter, and send the program director a one-minute video blog of themselves discussing the lessons in that week’s reading. The book studied during the first semester of the program was the 7 Habits of Highly Effective Teens (Covey, 2014). Day two leadership classroom of each week has thirty minutes allocated for student presentations on what they are learning in the leadership book. This is designed to improve students’ confidence in public speaking and to initiate class discussion.

The third component of the leadership training is a business project. Students must create a personal business with the goal of raising money to pay back the person who paid their program registration fee. The student success manual outlined in Appendix 4 is used to guide the student through the business creation and execution process. The business project provides students with a real-world scenario where they can practice experimental learning and develop important skills such as generating ideas, business planning, marketing, sales, and responsibility. Day two leadership classroom of each week has thirty minutes allocated for student presentations on their business progress. Through this, students’ have an opportunity to gain confidence in public speaking while also helping peers improve their business through open discussion.
2.2 School Integration Program

Many serious student-athletes look to private institutes to challenge themselves in the classroom and on the ice. These institutes can be very expensive which limits many families from participating. Additionally, most serious student-athletes are currently participating in supplementary development programs which usually take place in the evenings after school. Andrews Sports Institute School Integration Program is designed to provide more opportunities for serious student-athletes to challenge themselves while also freeing up valuable family time in the evenings. By integrating the Andrews Sports Institute program directly into the public-school system, student-athletes have an opportunity to receive the extra development they are searching for within their school day.

The in-depth development curriculum will help student-athletes develop in the following areas:

- Understand the importance of education and set concrete education goals that will be monitored throughout the program to ultimately become better students
- Develop a sense of responsibility to make a contribution to the community through community improvement projects
- Learn about important leadership traits and how to apply them
- Instill solid life habits such as reading personal development books, setting goals, helping others achieve their goals, confident communication, time management, self-discipline, and entrepreneurship
- Develop elite on-ice skills that are tailored to individual athlete needs

Table 3: School Integration Weekly Schedule

The proposed schedule requires four hours per week split into two days. Two of these hours would take place during the school day while the other two take place immediately before or after school. This fits within the participating school schedule by substituting one elective class with the Andrews Sports Institute program.
The on-ice skills program is outlined in Appendix 3. Each session includes thirty minutes of skating development and thirty minutes of advanced puck skills.

The leadership training classroom follows the same model as the After-School Program. This program is an extended version with twenty weeks of concepts to study (table 4). Student resource manuals can be found in Appendix 1 & Appendix 2.

The second component of the leadership training is a homework reading program. Students are provided with a leadership book to read and are assigned weekly chapters to study. Students read the book at home, write out a short summary of what they learned in that week's chapter, and send the program director a one-minute video blog of themselves discussing the lessons in that week's reading. The books studied during the School Integration Program include the 7 Habits of Highly Effective Teens (Covey, 2014) and Talent is Never Enough (Maxwell, 2009). Day two leadership classroom of each week has thirty minutes allocated for student presentations on what they are learning in the leadership book. This is designed to improve students' confidence in public speaking and to initiate class discussion.

The third component of the leadership training is a community involvement project. Students must volunteer with an organization that helps to make a positive contribution within the community. Students have the freedom to select the organization they will be involved with and must keep a written journal of their contribution and lessons learned through participation (Appendix 5). Day two leadership classroom of each week has thirty minutes allocated for student presentations on their community involvement project. Through this, students' have an opportunity to gain confidence in public speaking while also sharing great ways to make the community a better place.
2.3 Remote Program

It is impossible to maximize athletic potential without dedicated training. The Andrews Sports Institute Remote Program provides student-athletes with a twenty-week hockey and leadership training program to follow at home. The unique aspect of this remote training program is the coach mentorship role. Participating athletes are assigned a coach who monitor their training progress through video blogs and bi-weekly video-conference calls.

There are four components to the Remote Program (figure 2).

The Hockey Homework program is divided into four skill categories (table 5). Each week the participant is given a new skill to work on within each category. The participant practices this skill and sends a video to an assigned coach to receive feedback on the execution of that skill.

The first element of the leadership training program is research-based assignment which challenges students to learn about important leadership qualities and apply these qualities to their life. Each week students are given two related words to research. Students are also provided with a resource manual which can be found in Appendix 6. These resources include definitions, quotes, videos, and short readings that help to understand the leadership concept.

The student’s success manual (Appendix 7) is used to guide participants through the leadership concepts (table 6) by posing four simple questions: What does it mean? Why is it important? How does it apply to me? How can I improve in this area? Students submit their responses to their coach weekly through a video blog.
The second element of the leadership training program is a homework reading program. Students are provided with a leadership book to read and are assigned weekly chapters to study. Students read the book at home, write out a short summary of what they learned in that week’s chapter, and send their coach a one-minute video blog of themselves discussing the lessons in that week’s reading. The books studied during the School Integration Program include the Self Improvement 101 (Maxwell, 2009) and Leadership 101 (Maxwell, 2002) (table 7).

The third component of the leadership training is a community involvement project. Students must volunteer with an organization that helps to make a positive contribution within the community. Students have the freedom to select the organization they will be involved with and must keep a written journal of their contribution and lessons learned through participation (Appendix 5). Students send a weekly video blog to their coach explaining what they are doing to make the community a better place and what they are learning through this project.
Discussion

Becoming a high-level student-athlete today requires a large commitment both in terms of finances and time. Often times, those aspiring to achieve high performance levels are required to select either athletics or academics as their top priority; or are required to make a large financial commitment to attend a private institute that specializes in balancing athletics and academics for those who want to be challenged. Andrews Sports Institute is designed to supplement both athletic and academic development while allowing student-athletes to stay in the public school system. This model allows these student-athletes to receive an enhanced curriculum with an affordable price and also the important social aspect of staying in the public system.

Andrews Sports Institute is ultimately designed to develop leaders of high character. Through this program, student-athletes will learn valuable character lessons that will serve them well as they chase their life goals. The mission for Andrews Sports Institute is to Prepare Today’s Student-Athletes for Tomorrow’s World. With this mission in mind, Andrews Sports Institute is able to positively influence the lives of many student-athletes.

By having three components to the Andrews Sports Institute Programs, more student-athletes are able to be impacted. The simplicity of the program delivery, and the large impact it can make, makes this curriculum very practical and appealing to the public school system.

Through development of the Andrews Sports Institute Programs, the author grew personally and professionally through research and program development. A lot of time was spent researching different education systems and deciding what structure was best for the Andrews Sports Institute for Future Leaders Program. A large portion of the program is focused on Leadership and Personal Growth for the students. In gathering resources for the students to utilize, the author spent significant time researching these topics, which in turn helped the author to grow personally as well. The author also gained valuable experience by starting a new program from scratch and learning through both successes and failures.

Station A - Corner Cut Scoring

Part A)
- Start at the top of the circle with a puck
- Skate down the wall and perform a cut back towards the boards at the 2nd tire
- Player skates up and walks off the half wall around the 2nd tire before making a quick lateral fake and either shooting through or around 2 candle sticks set up as D

Part B)
- Same pattern as part A but rather than walking off the ½ wall around the 2nd tire the player skates back around the first tire and attacks the net from a low angle
- Work on pulling puck out to get a better angle + shot or fake and walk around goalie

Station B - NZone Touch Passing

- Set up 3 passers across the red line as shown
- Player will skate up one side making a touch pass off each passer
- After the third pass player will turn around a tire and do the same thing down the other side
- Player should not stickhandle but rather touch pass and receive forehand on one side and backhand on the other
- On the last pass player should take a one timer on net

Station C - Quick Cuts & Reaction Shooting

- Set up 3 logs across the zone as shown
- Player will pass puck off log at an angle
- Player skates full speed picks up puck in front of log, fakes to pull it wide on the angle that the puck comes off the log then quickly pulls it wide laterally to the other side
- Shoot immediately out of last lateral cut
- Perform the same skill on the other side but pull the puck to the opposite direction

- Player fakes to come out one side and cuts tight to the net on the other
- As soon as he comes around the net player turns to backwards and performs an escape turn around a second net for a shot on goal

Drill B - Defense Point Shots / Forward Corner Cuts
- Group players into Forwards and Defeseman. Defense drill is shown above; forwards will do corner cut drill (Day 2 dril C)
- Drill starts with one D1 in the middle of the ice, D2 net front, and D3 in the corner
- D3 chips puck up the boards for D1 to keep in
- D1 walks puck off the wall for a shot through traffic
- D2 screens and tips puck
- After pass, D3 turns backward and skates to D1s spot. D1 goes net front and D2 goes to the corner

Drill C - Chaos with Passers
- Set up a zone of chaos with tires, candle sticks, passers and logs
- On stick tap players go full speed through the chaos making touch passes off the passers
- On next stick tap players slow down and make moves with their hands around the obstacles

Drill D - One timers + Rebound
- X1 skates up around a tire for a pass from X2 and a one timer (over passer so the puck must get off the ice)
